COUNTY SHIPPERS MEET HERE TODAY

SEVERAL FARMERS ATTEND SESSION AT FARM BUREAU OFFICE

SHOW NUMBER OF FILMS

Speakers From Marketing Bureau And Inspection Bureau Discuss Problems.

Several livestock shippers of Nodaway County attended the meeting of the Livestock Shipping Association held at the farm bureau office today. Officials of the State Marketing Bureau of the Board of Agriculture and the Western Weighing and Inspection Bureau were present and discussed ways and means of reducing losses of livestock in transit.

The meeting was in charge of S. T. Simpson, livestock commissioner of the Marketing Bureau, working in cooperation with R. A. Kinnaird, county agent, and members of other farm organizations in the County.

A number of reels of motion pictures were shown at the meeting both this morning and afternoon. These pictured the various causes of livestock losses and showed some means of their prevention. The motion pictures treated the various phases of livestock problems from the feeding of the stock to the time it is slaughtered in the pens and made ready for the consumer.

Mr. Simpson told of the work of the State Marketing Bureau in reducing the losses of the shippers throughout Missouri. He said that in the first six months of 1921, the railroads paid $1,900,000 in claims, while for the same period in 1922, the amount paid was $1,100,000. In the first five months of 1923, he said, the death loss in hogs in the Western markets was 4,163 less than in the same period of 1922. This is due, he claimed, to the increased interest of the farmers in caring for the stock before, during and after transit and also to the assistance rendered by the various marketing organizations.

Simpson discussed the work of the Marketing Bureau in the promotion of more efficient livestock marketing and told the shippers present at the meeting that the improvement in their shipping conditions would come about through closer co-operation between them, the railroads and the state agencies working in behalf of the public. Simpson especially emphasized the need for shippers establishing contact with the proper authorities before lodging complaint with the railroads. He said that most of the railroads were anxious to do everything possible to keep down losses and resultant claims, and to perfect their systems of transporting livestock.

Dr. W. J. Embree, chief veterinarian from Chicago, showed numerous films which gave a clear picture of the loss situation and what it means to shippers. He said that losses last year amounted to more than 12 million dollars, but that they were being reduced annually. He said that shippers who used ice in shipping hogs had an average loss of only one hog out of 1800, while the average loss throughout the country was one hog out of 569.

According to Dr. Embree, the reduction of losses is largely in the hands of the shippers of the country. He advocated loading in clean cars only, using ice, having hogs cool before loading and never crowding hogs beyond capacity of cars just for the sake of shipping a large number.

Dr. V. W. Myers, chief veterinarian for the western weighing and inspection bureau at St. Louis, and Dr. Rogers of Chicago, discussed briefly the situation in Missouri and emphasized the importance of patrons co-operating with the shippers in getting hogs safely to market. They especially denounced the practice of heavy feeding before shipment, and said that this caused an enormous loss.

The lectures were illustrated with slides as well as the motion pictures.

Chandler and Cook are Tennis Champs

Miss Marie Chandler and Miss Roberta Cook were declared winners of the women's doubles tennis match today on account of forfeit of Miss Ora Mae Condon and Miss Hestor Cranor.

Miss Chandler and Miss Cook played as tennis partners two years for the Maryville high school, winning the championship of the district this year. They had considerable trouble in the college match surviving the semi-final round when they met the double team composed of Lethel Garten and Wave Hulet, but emerged the victors.

The men's doubles remains as the only match not yet finished. This will probably be played off today. Vern and Frank Gusewelle are matched against John Demotte and Leston Webb for the final game.

Salvation Army Is Harmed by Impostors

C. Edwin Wells Receives Letter Which Tells of Methods Used by Alleged Representatives.

C. Edwin Wells, librarian at the State Teachers College, has received a letter from the Divisional Headquarters of the Salvation Army telling of the working of imposters in Missouri and Kansas. A few men, the letter says, are working these states claiming to be representatives of the Salvation Army and they are obtaining money under false pretenses as they have no connection with the Salvation Army whatsoever. The letter reads as follows:

The Salvation Army and its Advisory Board members—in Kansas and Western Missouri are very greatly troubled with imposters, both men and women, who pretend to be soliciting money for the Salvation Army. It is estimated that several thousands of dollars are collected from the public each year, by parties who pretend to be representing the Salvation Army, but who have no connection with the Organization at all. The information has come to us from several counties recently that solicitation has been made by persons who stated they were Salvationists, and accepted checks made out to the Salvation Army.

It is reported to us that about two months ago two men drove into a Kansas town, one dressed in Salvation Army uniform, and stated they were organizing "Salvation Army Posts." The men had an old Ford car, and traded it in on a new one, leaving a balance of $370.00, which was to be met by monthly payments. None of the payments have been met, and the Ford dealer is earnestly trying to locate the parties. It is not necessary to say these men were not Salvationists.

We are most anxious to apprehend such impostors, as it is unfair to the public as well as to the Salvation Army. A personal letter has been mailed to each Advisory Board Chairman asking him to advise the members of the Board to look out for "Fakers" and requesting the Chairman to notify Major Albert S. Norris, at Divisional Headquarters of such irregularities so that the persons may be apprehended.

School District Has Home for Teacher

Only One Known to Provide for Teachers in This Manner—Started by Missouri Women

Bentonville, Ark., July 27—The Morning Star School District situated between Vaughn and Bentonville furnishes a home on the school grounds for its teachers. This is the only school district known to provide for its teachers in this manner.

The movement was started by the School Improvement Association, which has a Missouri woman, Mrs. Morton Lincoln, at its head, ten years ago. Mrs. Lincoln is a graduate of the Synodical College at Fulton, Mo., and her father was a teacher of mathematics at Westminister.

By providing a home for the teachers it was thought that teachers of a higher quality could be secured. Teachers who had to live in private homes were hampered in their school work.

The house is called the Teacherage and the first occupants were Mr. and Mrs. Arch Law and Miss Ruth Dunham. The present teachers are Mr. and Mrs. Ruhlac.

The board of directors of the Maryville Chamber of Commerce, at its last meeting, unanimously adopted a resolution commending George A. Pickens, the retiring secretary, for his tireless efforts and devotion to the organization and city during his last five years services as secretary. Mr. Pickens submitted his resignation to the board last week when he accepted the general secretaryship of the Missouri Association. The following is the resolution adopted:

Be it Resolved, That it is the sense of the Chamber of Commerce that Maryville suffers a serious loss and it is with the deepest regret that we lose his services. At the same time we rejoice in his stepping up higher and wish him the greatest success in his new field and will always be glad to learn of his further progress in his chosen field.

FRANCE FINISHES BRITISH ANSWER

REPARATION NOTE TO GO TO LONDON SOON.

RUHR ATTITUDE BETTER

Encouraging Signs of Franco-German Co-operation There — London Chronicle Assails Poincare.

Paris, July 27—France's reply to the British reparation note has been completed, it was stated at the foreign office today. A copy of it was sent to Brussels yesterday. If Belgian negotiations are concluded in time the note will be dispatched to London tomorrow.

Recent reports from the Ruhr state that the local population is changing its attitude toward occupation. Germans in the Ruhr are said to be showing an increasing tendency to co-operate with the French.

In consideration of this changed attitude the French military authorities are proposing progressive modifications of the occupational regulations. The first was the lifting of the blockade.

Steps will be taken to ameliorate the living conditions of the Germans also. However, if any outbreaks of sabotage occur, the oldtime strictness will be re-established.

Brussels, July 27—Belgium may not reply to the British reparation note until Premier Theunis converses with Premier Poincare next week, it was learned here this afternoon. It is admitted that there is a divergance of viewpoint between Brussels and Paris.

London, July 27—Although it is reported that the Franco-British reply to the British reparation note may be forwarded to London tomorrow or within the next three or four days, fear is held here that it will not come soon enough to prevent Germany from collapsing.

The Daily Chronicle, official organ of David Lloyd George, openly charged today that the motive for France's delay in answering the British note is contained in the fact that Premier Poincare still believes that Germany is on the very verge of a breakdown.

Advices from Dutch sources tell of increasing monarchial activities. A dispatch from Cologne said that the Germans in that region were becoming restive. Precautions are being taken to prevent looting due to the suspicion that dealers are holding up foodstuffs for a rise in prices.

The decline in the value of the mark continues. Many factories have closed during the present week. Unemployment and general German unrest have added to the misery caused by the famine and shortage of clothing

U. S. MUST KEEP A 1ST RANK NAVY —Says Harding

OUR ONLY ASSURANCE, HE TELLS SEATTLE PRESS CLUB.

INSPECTS PACIFIC FLEET

Makes His Address After Impressive Review—To Speak on Alaska at 4 o'Clock.

With President Harding at Seattle, July 27.—Until the day comes when the nations of the world agree not to employ armed force, the United States must place its chief reliance in a very first rank navy, President Harding told the Seattle Press Club here today in his first address after his return from Alaska.

The President made the speech after spending the morning in reviewing the splendid Pacific fleet drawn up in battle array for the President's homecoming.

Any failure to keep the United States in first rank is not chargeable to any foreign influence, he said, but is directly chargeable against us.

"Today we saw the Pacific fleet, indicating a naval power, not second, third, eight or tenth, but equal to the best in all the world," he stated. Continuing, he said:

"Perhaps the day may come—I would speed it all I could—when the nations employ no armed force. Until such a day does come, we shall find our assurances in a navy of the first rank."

Seattle, July 27—President Harding came back to home today to the accompaniment of a deafening welcome from the Pacific fleet assembled for review in the Seattle harbor.

The transport Henderson broke through the gray mist over the bay to find the battleships of the Pacific drawn up smartly in line for Presidential inspection. The roar of the giant guns from Admiral Hillery P. Jones' flagship, the armored Curtiss, was the welcoming note to the President's homecoming after three weeks absence from the United States.

The first gun from the Seattle in the Presidential salute of twenty-one, was a signal for a succession of ear-splitting detonations from the other battleships assembled, as the Henderson moved slowly along the line of ships. One after another from the California, Idaho, Mississippi, Nevada, Pennsylvania, Oklahoma, Texas, and New York bombed out to welcome the President home and shattered the morning stillness of the day. The Henderson, with her deck rails lined with marines, and sailors, steamed quietly by. The President's craft returned no salute.

The Canadian made a deep and lasting impression upon President Harding. At Vancouver, British Columbia, the President was accorded a welcome such as is seldom, if ever, given to any visitor, however distinguished and the President went aboard the Henderson last night, a tired, but happy man.

The President spent a busy day in Seattle. After landing at 10 o'clock this morning, he had a 2-hours motor trip through the city where thousands of school children were out to welcome him. Harding will be the guest of Seattle this afternoon and at 4 o'clock he will arrive at the stadium where he will make his address upon Alaska.

In this address, as outlined previously in news stories and dispatches, he will report nothing as seriously wrong with Alaska, but that development must necessarily be a slow progress with no quick, easy or royal road to prosperity. The President, it is understood, will emphasize to his Seattle audience, the immensity of the rich Alaskan resources and pledge an administration of fruitful conservation.

The President takes the road after his Alaskan trip, leaving Seattle at 7 o'clock in the morning on the Great Northern for El Portal, Calif., where early Sunday morning he will enter Yosemite Park for a two days' visit, then continue on Monday night down the coast.

GOOD CITIZENSHIP

Are all the voters in the United States good citizens? It does not seem so when only 49 per cent of America's registered voters go to the polls on election day. England's voting strength is 80 per cent, which may be one reason why many political science leaders proclaim the British government superior to the American system, both in representation and in democratic legislation.

At any rate, it stands to reason that 51 per cent of the citizens of the United States are shirking the duties of citizenship. They are criticizing the government in no uncertain terms; the legislation proposed and passed does not suit them; the lawmakers, they say, are not true representatives of the people. Yet, when election day comes around, they stay quietly at home and refuse to accept their rightful responsibilities.

What is the solution? A change could be brought about through more adequate instruction in citizenship. Nor should such instruction be reserved for college and university students. It should be made a part of the grade and high school curricula. Or it may come through such organizations as the American Sentinels, which has just been organized for boys of sixteen in Chicago. The aim of the American Sentinels is to take a boy of this age, build him in mind and body, protect him against pernicious associations and direct his development until the day when he shall be inducted into citizenship.

The foundation of civic, state, and national life is the enforcement of progressive laws—laws destined to help us advance. But before our government can advance unhampered, there must be an understanding of the workings of that system of government.

Let there be more classes in citizenship not only for the boys and girls, tomorrow's citizens, but also for the mothers and fathers on whose shoulders rests the responsibility of today's government. Let these classes emphasize the fact that good citizenship, as Katherine Fullerton Gerould expresses it, is not holding this or that political opinion; it is a certain spirit of fair play and a respect for individual liberty as well as for law. Columbia Missourian.

THE UPWARD TRAIL.

A certain man who was a tramp, says the Baltimore Sun, sat in the shelter of a little cliff that shielded him from the chill of autumn winds and felt in his pockets for a few grains of tobacco wherewith to fill the bowl of his disreputable pipe. Two small stones near at hand supported tin cans whose outer surfaces were black with smoke from the fire beneath, and in one of the cans there was coffee and in the other a savory stew that perfumed all the air. With his pipe alight the man leaned back against the wall of the cliff and smiled in complete contentment.

"Tobacco, food, an appetite and liberty," he murmured. "What more can mortal ask?"

One year later the man passed that way again, but he was no longer a tramp. He had come up in the world and was a prospector. A patient burro carried his kit of tools and his supplies of food. The man made camp in the lee of the cliff and set about the business of preparing supper. There was food in abundance, and the air was sweet and warm. Having eaten his fill, the man loaded his pipe from a generous pouch, folded a blanket, and sat upon it with his back against the wall of the cliff. After a little he moved uneasily on his improvised seat.

"What a life!" said he. "I wish to heaven I had a decently comfortable chair out here."

Another year passed, and now the man stood before a nickeled basin in a Pullman car and studied his reflection in the mirror above. With countless thousands of dollars in the bank and other thousands daily adding to the total of his wealth he was traveling in quest of entertainment. For the first time in his life, to employ his own phrase, he was riding the cushions. At present he was shaving, and in a little while he would make his way back to the dining car and consume a generous breakfast.

"It's a darned strange thing to me," said the man as he lathered his chin for the second time, "that these infernal dressing rooms can't be made a little more convenient."

Louise, the stenographer, says there are a lot of people here in Maryville, who are happiest when they have a piece of scandal to tell.

Perhaps the reason the average husband is so bad is because he knows he will get accused of doing the things whether he does them or not.

---

A cynical bachelor remarked to us the other day that few women who look younger than they are worry about it.

Vagrant Musings

When some people get religion they don't know what to do with it.

You are safer in buying soap from a peddler than oil stock from a stock salesman.

It is true these days that most parents do about as their children tell them.

When a man likes to see others as miserable as he is himself he starts out to be a reformer.

Today's Vaudeville Patter

Biff—What is meant by a plausable liar?

Bang—A husband who can alibi so his wife will believe him.

Mrs. E. C. Braniger will leave Monday for Kansas City, where she will spend a week, the guest of Mrs. W. L. Ames.

Georgia Guest Here.

Miss Margaret James of Ft. Valley, Ga., a former instructor in the Maryville Conservatory of Music, is spending a few days the guest of Miss Jennie Garrett. Miss James will be a member of the music faculty in the college in Hopkinsville, Ky., next year.

Standard Oil Service

THE Standard Oil Company Indiana is doing much to solve a problem of intense and vital interest to you.

With its mammoth central refineries and its far-reaching distributing system—operating with machine-like precision—it is exerting a direct influence on the labor problems of the farmer.

That the farmer is coming to a realization of the benefits of motorizing his equipment is shown by the fact that one tractor manufacturer reports the sale of 20,000 of his machines during the first three months of 1923 as compared with 8,000 of the same machines sold during the same period in 1922.

This increase in the use of mechanical power in general farm practice means a distinct saving in time, and, eventually, will mean greater crops and greater general prosperity.

While the efficient harnessing of petroleum with farming, and the production of food, is an achievement of signal importance, it is but one instance of how Standard Oil Company (Indiana) service dovetails with every other business.

It dovetails with industry by furnishing specialized lubricants for special machinery.

It promotes health by taking from petroleum those ingredients which are used medicinally. It makes it possible for the doctor to cover a much greater territory in pursuing his practice.

It dovetails with the railroads through lubricating much of their intricate equipment, and makes night travel safe by reason of a dependable signal system.

It meets the housewife by furnishing her a wax which safeguards her preserves, jellies, and condiments against spoilage.

It reaches directly, or indirectly, every man in the Middle West at some point which is essential to his prosperity or happiness with a service which is occupying the entire time and attention of 27,000 loyal, efficient, hard-working men and women.

Late Telegraph News

Fort Worth, Tex., July 27—Fort Worth negroes will organize a new local Knights of Pythias lodge at a meeting to be held August 2. Phil R. Register, deputy grand chancellor of the order, is accepting memberships for the new lodge at lodge headquarters.

Tulsa, Okla., July 27—After cheating Tulsa barbers out of the price of a shave or even a haircut for nearly forty years, "Jack, the Newsie" allowed himself the pleasure of sitting in a barber chair. Just why Jack should so suddenly make up his mind to have his hair cut is a mystery to all who know him.

For many years Jack and his long hair and whiskers have been a familiar sight on the streets of Tulsa. During the day he could be found at the library, sleeping in one of the chairs, or walking the streets with a small black satchel in his hand. Never was he known to converse with anyone but an intimate friend.

People used to say the reason he refused to have his hair trimmed was that he was disappointed in love years ago.

Kansas City, Mo., July 27—Clanging fire gongs are an inspiration to some and a useless noise to others, but to the attendance committee of a Ford-for-President club they proved a blessing.

Only four members of the club had appeared for a meeting at 8 o'clock in the evening. Shortly after that hour several fire trucks passed.

In the crowd attracted by the gongs four recruits for the meeting were found.

Eight members then being present, business proceedings were begun. These consisted, for the most part, of pleas for a complete revolution of the present industrial system, and liberation from "the rule of capitalists."

Fort Worth, Tex., July 27—Mayor Cockrell of Forth Worth is minus $2. His money went into the municipal coffers upon the order of Judge Bailey to pay a fine for double parking.

The mayor's chauffeur parked his employer's car beside another car in the business district while he took the mayor's suit into a cleaning and pressing establishment. Gone only a moment, a policeman had tagged his car while he was gone, he explained to the court when he pleaded guilty.

Enid, Okla., July 27—Officials of the Southwest Wheat Growers, Associated, announce that in the first two weeks of heavy grain movements for the 1923 season approximately two million bushels of the estimated ten million to be handled through the organization this year were delivered to the elevators owned or controlled by them.

The traffic department of the association has been working overtime routing the more than fifteen hundred cars of grain shipped by the organization's members in the 14-day period ending July 17. At least four weeks of shipments equal as heavy are expected, say the Wheat Growers officials.

Enid, Okla., July, 27—The suggestions for farmer betterment resulting from the Southwest Wheat Producers' conference at Wichita are being greeted with acclaim by the farmers of Garfield county, according to County Agent A. J. Graham, who states that more than 50 per cent of the farmers in the district surrounding Enid have already made plans to change their style of farming next year. Many fields given over exclusively to the raising of wheat for the last ten years already have been planted with forage crops, and many farmers who never before raised any live stock are planning the immediate purchase of high grade breeding animals for the foundation of registered dairy herds.

Little Friends Bury Dead Fire Dog

Rags, a dog attached to Truck No. 14 of the Chicago fire department, is dead and he left a sad lot of little mourners behind. For years Rags was a favorite in the neighborhood and while he often visited homes in the immediate vicinity, nothing could hold him when an alarm came in and he invariably caught up with the truck company before it reached the fire. The photograph shows the burial of Rags by his playmates and some of the members of the department.

NEGROES AFFLICTED WITH TUBERCULOSIS

MORE THAN WHITES, HEALTH SUPERVISOR SAYS.

DISEASE SPREADS RAPIDLY

25 Per Cent of Tubercular Negroes Come in Contact With Whites—Institution at Mt. Vernon.

Mount Vernon, Mo., July 26.—"Because tuberculosis is four times as prevalent among the negroes as the white people there is a great need for a state institution to care for negroes who are afflicted with the disease," said Dr. George P. Ard in explaining the work of the Missouri State Sanatorium at Mount Vernon, Mo. Dr. Ard is health supervisor of the state eleemosynary institutions.

The reason for the disease being more prevalent among the negroes is party due to vocations chosen and partly to the home conditions. The death rate among the negro population from tuberculosis is 3.5 per cent greater than among the white race and 25 per cent of the negroes come in contact with the white people, thus making the disease more rapidly spread.

"Another great need of the state is an institution for the care of the chronic cases of tuberculosis. The institution here is allowed to take care of cases in their early stages," said Doctor Ard. Jasper county, Kansas City and St. Louis take care of their chronic cases but outside of these areas most of the cases go to the alm houses or are taken care of in private homes. Because of the danger of the spreading of the disease there is a great need for an institution to care for these patients.

The Missouri State Sanatorium, the only institution of its kind in the state was opened in 1907. It constitutes 227 acres of ground upon which are eleven buildings. Three new buildings—administration building and two convelescent buildings—will complete the institution. The expenditure for the buildings and the equipment amounts to $554,684.

During the biennial period of 1921-23, 663 patients have been admitted of whom 448 were discharged. Of those discharged 108 were arrested cases, 118 improved cases, 204 unimproved cases and eighteen deaths. The arrested cases are not those completely cured, but the cases where the conditions are such that if taken care of the patients will not be bothered with the disease in the future.

In 1921 there were 3,010 deaths from tuberculosis in Missouri which indicates that there were 27,090 persons that needed hospital care and treatment. Authorities at the institution say that for every death from tuberculosis there are nine of ten persons afflicted with the disease. There are now facilities in Missouri to care for 1,131 patients.

There are now at this institution 190 patients of whom 109 are female and 81 are male patients. Many of the patients go home during the summer. Hospital authorities encourage the patients to spend the summer at home. The capacity of the present institution is 275 patients, but when the new building is complete 330 patients can be taken care of.

Patients are sent to the hospital by the county courts and are maintained by the county from which they are sent. The county pays $30 a month for each patient it has in this institution. Individuals may come to the hospital, but must pay $50 a month.

It is the object of the hospital officials to relieve the patients of any kind of worry that may tend to retard the recovery. The institution is trying to get a field staff to care for the patients and keep records of their progress after they are released. The sanatorium treatment tends to make teachers of the patients. They tend to teach the people of their community the things they learn at the sanatorium.

There is a social welfare department attached to the institution of which Miss Elizabeth Moore is the head. She places patients in homes and positions where the environment is especially good. In this way she takes care of many of the arrested cases.

A school department is attached to the Sanatorium and while the children are here they receive their education.

The institution maintains its own dairy herd of thirty-one head of Holstein milk cows. This herd furnishes enough milk to supply each man, woman and child with six quarts of milk daily. One cow, Cedar View DeKol, holds a state record in milk production. Last summer for three months she produced daily one hundred pounds of milk. The institution also uses ninety dozen eggs daily.

This year for the first time in the history of the institution it did not ask for a deficieney appropriation. According to Doctor Ard this is due to competitive buying directed by the Central Board of Control which is in control of all eleemosynary institutions.

Golf Pointers

What clubs should a beginner choose and why?

Answered by
WILLIE HUNTER

Member and captain British international golf team for several years; the man who introduced golf into British East and South Africa, and New South Wales. Teacher of Willie Hunter, British amateur champion.

Four clubs are necessary for the beginner—brassie, midiron, mashie and putter. The brassie will account for the driving and the long shots to be made from a good lie on the fairway. The midiron will take care of the middle distance shots from a slightly rough lie and the mashie will do for the approaches and getting out of trouble in sand and other bad lies. The putter is, of course, necessary on the green. Beginners should not make the mistake of trying to use a lot of fancy clubs for their shots until they can handle these four. To do otherwise would be like trying to build a skyscraper without any foundation.

And all thou seekest hides in yonder grave.

Life said to Time: "No slave am I to thee.

Wielding thee well I verily am free—
Free from the folly of the taskless fool
Who knows thee not, to serve or to command."

Largest Enrollment at Springfield School

Between 2500 and 3000 Students Enrolled in Teachers College There —116 Faculty Members

Springfield, Mo., July 26—The largest summer session of any school in Missouri is now being held at the Southwest Missouri State Teachers College at Springfield. There are between 2,500 and 3,000 students taking the summer work. There are 250 subjects being taught by 116 faculty members.

The first session of the Southwest Missouri State Teachers College was in 1906, with 543 students and twelve faculty members. For the first school year, 1907-08, there were 1,087 students and for the school year 1921-22, there were 3,390 students. This year the number of students will be about 500 greater than two years ago. Most of the students come from the area within a radius of eighty miles of Springfield. However, some students come from other states and other parts of Missouri.

The Academic Hall now is so crowded that classes have to be held from 7:20 o'clock in the morning to 4:20 o'clock in the afternoon. Several classes are held in the engine room and a temporary building has been erected to house the domestic science classes.

The new education hall in the course of construction will probably be finished sometime this fall at the cost of $300,000. In the basement of this building is a strictly modern gymnasium that will seat 3,000 and will greatly relieve the congested condition much felt by the school in former years.

An appropriation of $250,000 has been made for a new Science Hall which is to be constructed directly across from the Education Hall, thus putting the three buildings in the form of a quadrangle. This building will not be erected until the Education Hall is completed.

Prof. James W. Shannon, head of the history department, said he expected between 1,000 and 1,500 students to attend the school this fall. Mr. Shannon said it was the spirit of the frontier that has made the school and because of this it will continue to grow.

Much Fruit Around Decatur, Ark. This Year

Has More Bearing Apple Trees Than Any Other County in the United States—Enormous Crop

Decatur, Ark., July 26—Fruit is the money crop in Benton County, Arkansas, with Decatur as the shipping center. The fruit ripening season opens in this county with the ripening of the strawberries and ends in October with the harvesting of the winter apples. Benton County has the reputation of having more bearing apple trees than any other county in the United States.

According to E. N. Plank of the Green Lawn Fruit Farm, Decatur is the place where people come to make their homes. It is just outside the resort district.

Forty cars of strawberries were shipped from Decatur this year which was only 65 per cent of a crop. The raspberry and the blackberry is the crop that follows the strawberry and is an important one.

It is estimated that in August of this year approximately 125 cars of Jonathan apples will be shipped from Decatur. The fruit region extends over the territory within a radius of five miles of Decatur.

The vegetable crop of which the bean and tomato is the most important is extensively cultivated in this area. There are about 300 acres in beans in this area and each day from 150 to 250 hampers of beans are shipped from Decatur. A hamper is what is commonly known as a bushel.

N. H. Ferrin, a poultry enthusiast of this district ships all his eggs to New York City. There he gets a much better price than is offered on the local market.

Marketing of the Benton county farm products is done exclusively by two marketing organizations, the Farmer's Union and the Decatur Union, both are members of the Ozark Fruit Grower's Association. These organizations were started in 1906, and they secure for the seller a uniform price for his products. They protect the buyer and the seller.

ARKANSAS COUNTY IS APPLE CENTER

BENTON COUNTY SHIPS MORE THAN ANY SECTION IN U. S.

LARGEST CIDER FACTORY

Is Located at Rogers—Vinegar is Also Made in Enormous Quantities—48,000 Apple Trees

Rogers, Ark., July 27—Sixty-five per cent of an average apple crop is expected this season, according to apple growers near Rogers. Rogers is the principal town in Benton county, the county that ships more bulk apples than any other apple section in the states. Also, Benton county stands first in the number of bearing apple trees.

According to the 1910 census there were twice as many apple trees in Benton county as there are today, but the production was only about half that of last year. In this county alone there are approximately 48,000 bearing apple trees, and the crop when normal will amount to about $3,000,000

There has been established in Rogers the largest cider and vinegar factory in the world because of the fact that this is a large apple producing region. The Ozark Cider and Vinegar Company employes fifty persons, and it is the main industry in Rogers. Something of the greatness of this concern may be realized when told that annually the plant presses 3,000,000 gallons of apple juice. Nothing is wasted. All the by-products are used; even fertilizer is made of the dried fiber.

Apple growing is the primary industry, but it is not alone, for poultry raising and dairying are taking their place in the products of Benton county. In the year 1921 there came an unusual Easter frost and virtually killed the apple crop for that year. The people thought they were down and out, but the hen and the cow were depended upon to tide them through that year and since then these two products have been increasing their importance in Benton county. The casual observer may not at once recognize the importance of the poultry industry, but last year Rogers alone shipped poultry products valued at over $350,000. Washington county, adjoining Benton county on the south, that same year shipped 816 tons of eggs.

One of the outstanding features of this region is the high degree of the educational advancement among the fruit growers. They are by no means the "rubes" so frequently considered as the inhabitants of this section. They raise their fruit scientifically and use scientific terms when speaking of sprays and soils.

Dr. Bradford Knapp, Dean of the College of Agriculture of the University of Arkansas, says the development of this region is by no means complete even though it is far advanced. The grape culture is being developed in the Ozarks and is being encouraged by the Welch Grape Juice Company, which has built a factory in Springdale and intends to handle all the grapes this region can produce. The prospects near Rogers are bright, one young vineyard which was planted four years ago produced four tons of grapes to the acre in 1922. The average price received for the grapes during the 1922 season was $75. This price enables the growers to reap profit from land that heretofore would produce practically nothing.

Rogers as well as being a center of agricultural repute, is as well known as a tourist's center. At this time of the year nearly 1,200 tourists a day pass through Rogers from all parts of the United States. Many of these tourists are on their way to and from Belle Vista and Monte Ne, two popular resorts just four miles from Rogers.

Many Applicants to John Brown College

Approximately 3,000 Persons Have Applied for Admission to College —No Expenses.

Siloam Spring, Ark., July 26.—Approximately 3,000 applications for admission have been received by the officials of John E. Brown College, a college where there are no expenses. Of this number applications only 250 students can be accommodated.

The John E. Brown College was established by the evangelist, John E. Brown, now president, September 1919. His sole purpose in establishing this college was to give the young boys and girls, who could not pay their expenses in any higher institution of learning, a chance to become educated.

The only expenses a student has is his books, clothing and railroad fare, which amounts to from $40 to $100 a school year of nine months. The students work four hours daily for the school which takes care of their room, board and laundry expenses.

Various departments are kept up by the school and in these the students earn their way through school. For example the school has 510 acres of land and sixty head of Jersey cattle, a garage that has the Star, Durant and the International truck agencies, a printing establishment and other departments that employ student labor.

A new building called the California building is being built by student labor under the direction of one man. The building is so called because the money for its construction will come from California. The building is a 3-story dormitory for women which will have 104 rooms. It will be used in the summer as a hotel. The building will cost approximately $65,000 where outside bids have been $125,000, this low cost is due to the student labor and the decreased cost of materials that the being purchased at half the wholesale cost and the transportation of the materials is donated to the school by the railroad companies.

School work from the seventh grade to their third year in college is taught. Also, a trade of some kind is taught the boys. Girls are in the minority. Only 40 per cent of the students are girls. This is accountable for the fact that the boys can do so many different kinds of work. The girls work in the school laundry, kitchen and basketry, where the boys work in all mechanical, printing and agricultural departments.

Another new building is going to be erected, called the Administration building. The funds for this building will come from Texas.

SWIMMING INSTRUCTIONS

What motions are made by the arms in the side stroke?

Answered by
BILL BACHRACH

Illinois Athletic Club; most famous and successful of all swimming coaches; has turned out champions such as Johnny Weissmuller, world's fastest swimmer; Norman Ross, Sibyl Bauer, Perry McGillivray, Harry Hebner, Arthur Raithel, Bob Skelton, and Mike McDermott.

In starting the stroke, the body lies extended on the right side, for instance the right arm forward, the left arm held alongside the left hip. The right arm starts a downward sweep, ending the pull at the right thigh. While the right arm is recovering, the left is carried forward under the water to the extended position. As the right arm is relaxed, elbow bent and hand shot forward again below the surface, the left arm sweeps in a wide semi-circle just below the surface, palm turned to the rear. The left arm stroke ends near the thigh and the body glides for a moment in extended position before the next stroke is started. The left arm does the most work, the right arm being chiefly a balancer.
